

Celtic Studies and Blue Butterfly Books

warmly invite you to attend the launch of Thursday, March 26, 2009 from 5.30 to 7.30 p.m.

Robert Madden Hall, in Carr Hall, St. Michael's College

100 St. Joseph Street, Toronto

PROGRAM

Words of welcome: Fr. Edward Jackman.

Introductory remarks: publisher Patrick Boyer, president of Blue Butterfly Books

Reading and recitations: Treasa O'Driscoll

wine and hors d'oeuvres will be served

This event is generously sponsored by The Jackman Foundation

Acclaim for Celtic Woman

“Richly layered with meaning, refined as velvet, writing is thinking here.”

– Nuala O'Faolain, author of My Dream of You

“When you sit down to read Treasa O'Driscoll's Celtic Woman, settle in as it is a thought train you'll want to alight from, filled with word play, poetry, history, romance, leaving no sense untouched.”

– Malachy McCourt, author of A Monk Swimming

“An enlightened journey back to the spiritual heart of Ireland.”

– James Redfield, author of The Celestine Prophecy

Copies of Celtic Woman and other Blue Butterfly titles will be available for purchase

➤ RSVP treasaodriscoll@sympatico.ca

For more information visit bluebutterflybooks.ca

Blue Butterfly Books

THINK FREE, BE FREE

bluebutterflybooks.ca